BOAT ON THE RIVER

There's a boat on the river, it's sailing along, and the wind's blowing soft in it's sail, and a sailor is sleeping alone in his bed, he is dreaming of fairy tales.

Oh little boat you are sailing away, tell me are you going far, oh you are singing a beautiful tune, and you're singing it straight from the heart.

While the boat's floating further on down in the stream, and the smokestack is blowing its smoke, if the sailor is sleeping then who is to know, whether he's going to live or to choke.
